All Kids Included is developing a new expressive arts program benefiting youth and their families who may be directly or indirectly affected by anxiety, trauma, depression, or related conditions. Everyone interested in learning more about the potential of the arts to help cope with feelings of sadness, fear, hopelessness, or worry is welcome to attend. These fun and uplifting introductory sessions will help AKI develop a new program using the creative arts as a means of self-expression and a pathway to coping and supporting mental and physical wellbeing.
